Pligrims of the United States at a dinner given in his honor to-night at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Nearly one hundred and fifty men, prominent in many walks of life, were present. Sir Thomas arrived at 7:46, and for half an hour the gallant owner of Shamrock III, received his friends. Then Sir Thomas, escorted by George T. Wilson, who was to preside, led the way from the reception room to the tables. At either end of the hall was hung Sir Thomas' private emblems, the Shamrock on a field of yellow surrounded by green border, while above the guests' table were draped the flags of Great Britain and the United States. Bunches of red roses on each table and greens on the walls completed the decorations.

In order to enliven affairs somewhat at the outset the guests sang a song to the refrain of "Mr. Dooley," which told of, the virtues of Sir Thomas and his enduring efforts to lift the cup.

There had heen arranged no formal appech, but the following were called upon:
George T. Wilson, Sir Thomas Lipton, speech, but the substitution of the presence of Bishop Potter, deneral Joseph Wheeler, General H. C. Corbin, Colonel Henry Watterson, ex Governor C. S. Thomas, of Colorado, and Senator A. E. Bates.

Mr. Wilson presided at the dinner in the absence of Bishop Potter, the president of the gadetic.

the absence of Bishop Potter, the president of the society.

When the ices were served a procession of waiters marched in to a popular air, bearing trays crowned with glided harps, full rigged models of Rehance and Shamrock, and casels with figures of yachis. Later women began to appear in the hoxes, among them being the Countes of Shaftesbury and many other ladies who have been Sir Thomas' guests on board the Erin.

A CORKER.

Mr. Wilson, addressing Sir Thomas, said that his attitude had struck a responsive chord in every heart.

"As a loser," said he, "you are a corker. You will ever have the admiration, love and regard of all American.

corker. You will ever have the admiration, love and regard of all Americans."

Sir Thomas was given many hearty rounds of cheers when he arose. He said:

"As regards the cup races, we have been beaten fairly and squarely, and I congratulate America upon having the better beat. I wish to take occasion here to express my thanks for the courteousness and kindness shown me by the New York Yacht Club. I am especially grateful for the admirable way in which the course was kept clear.

"I have heard much comment for and Against' the Sandy Hook course. It is as good a course as any other—may, there is no other course in the world like it.

"I am beginning to think that there is geme magic spell about that blooming old cup. Two years ago I had it almost within my grasp, but it escaped me then, as it has escaped me now, and it seems as far off as ever.

"Herreshoff is the greatest designer of the age, but I am still very hopeful that I will see that cup on the other side yet.

"America is a very hard country to beat, and I know it. I am a very disappointed man, but still I have the consolation that both conquerors and conquered belong to the same good old race. The cup is still in the family, only it is held by a younger and more ahead generation.

"Gentlemen, while I lort the cup, I

The cup is still in the cup, I held by a younger and more ahead generation.

"Gentlemen, while I lost the cup, I rather did not succeed in winning it, I have not lost the esteem and good will of my American friends, which esteem and good will I reciprocate in the very highest degree possible. I am sure that as the days and years roll by these contests will not have been held in value if they make us realize that wherever we are all the world over we shall brithers be for a' that."

After speeches had been made by the Earl of Shaftesbury, General Corbin and Colonel Watterson, General Corbin and Colonel Watterson, General Wheelet spoke in part as follows:

"The events of the last two weeks are an illustration of the old and tried saying that we sometimes build higher than we know, it is fortunate not only for himself, but for the world that Sir Thomas did not succeed in the special purpose for which he crossed the ocean. What seemed to be loss, misfortune and disaster has become in reality fortune tri-purpose for which he crossed the ocean. What seemed to be loss, misfortune and disaster has become in reality fortune triumph and victory. Sir Thomas came to America to win a silver cup. He has won what is even better than a golden crownethe admiration, applause, and love of the world. Any one can be grand in success and victory, but the world produces for who can rise to the height of grandeur when their most herculean efforts have falled in the cherished purpose of their ambitions.

"For months Sir Thomas has been the most prominent and conspicuous individual upon the face of the globe. The calcium searchlight has been upon him every moment and when he returns to our mother country, he will be welcomed as gne who in the eyes of the world has elevated the standard of Anglo-Saxon manhood, and he will carry with him the eyer increasing love and admiration of the American people."

NO BELLS AND LIGHTS

Bic cle Riding at Night is Dangerou to Pedestrians.

The resumption of bleycle riding, such a craze some years ago, has now become very noticeable, but in resuming the use of the wheel very few of the riders appear to have resumed the use of bells and lights. As a consequence thrilling escapes from injury by collision with wheels are reported almost daily, and several persons have been struck. There is much reckless riding around corners, especially at hight, the rubber-tired cycles whizing by at shriling speed. If the ordinances requiring lights at night and bells in the daytime were strictly enforced, it would add a snug sum to the treasury. resumption of bicycle riding, such

DENVER, COL., September 4.—Governor Peabody decided to-day, after receiving the report of the committee which he sent to Cripple Creek to investigate strike conditions there, to dispatch troops to the gold company. #### THOUSANDS WILL BE OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

(By Associated Press.) FALL RIVER, MASS., September 4 .-Seventeen cotton manufacturing corporations of Fail River will shut down entirely to-morrow until September 14th, throwing out of work nearly 13,000 hands operating 1,300,000 spindles. The curtailment next week is the most extensive of any here since the cotton situation became unfavorable to mill owners. This extensive stoppage of machinery will take more than $100,000 out of circulation, through the loss of wages.

The delay in arrival of new cotton and the situation in the market, together with the fact that Monday is a holiday, are responsible for the idleness of so many spindles. Seventeen cotton manufacturing corpora

MAY CHALLENGE AGAIN FOR THE CUP

NEW YORK, September 4.-Sir Thoms

NEW YORK, September 4.—Sir Thomas Lipton is still undecided whether to challenge again for the America's cup. He said to-day:
"If I can find a man who can design a hoat to beat the Yankee sloop I shall challenge again. To say that I will not challenge again is untrue. If I do challenge again it will be with a ninety footer."

Sir Thomas said that when Shamrock III. was sailing in England on a ninety-two foot water line, before her extra weight was removed to bring her within the ninety foot limit, she did a great deal better than after the change. Sir Thomas said to-day that he would not sell either of the Shamrocks.

Our Wealthy South.

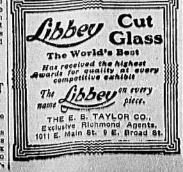

Our Wealthy South,

While many people are deploring the financial crisis, a brief review of the increasing prosperity of the South is reassuring to the entire antion. In 1800 the assessed wealth of the Southern States was $5,200,190,818. They came war and devastation. The cost of that strife to the South, including slaves, is shown when twenty years later, even after reconstruction had been accomplished, its wealth was two billion dollars less than in 1860.

But the last two decades tell a different story, for progress has marked the course of the States than fine 1802 the figures read $5,916,900,000. These are but the assessment figures of the States thesolves. As the census for 1802 the the wealth of the South as more than double the State figures, it is estimated that the actual wealth when given out by the census for 1900, which is likely to be more uniform, will be at least 14 billions. This almost equals the total wealth of the country just prior to the civil wars.

Newstrom is a jaborer, and among his acquaintances was noted for his religious zeal, as it was his custom to de severthing in strict conformity with the interpretation of the Bible. 'At first Newstrom refused to give an explanation of what had occurred, and it was supposed that the deed was done accidentally—that his hand had broken the law of God and was therefore worthiness as a hand.

He then copy to argue with the physicians that it was the proper thing for him to do, as the much preferred to lose one hand than his soul.

The doctors think Newstrom will recover, although he was very weak on account of the loss of blood. His religious enthusiasm never wavered, and he is afranty convinced that his action was wise.—Minneapolis Times.
